Skinny Skribbles

Around And About Town With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

If you are from Iowa, put on your old gray bonnet next Saturday and start for Lincoln Park, in the city where the angels were, but left. Driven out by the movie stars. But that isn't what I started out to tell you. It's annual picnic day for former Iowans. By that time George Washington will have been properly honored, and the field will be cleared for a day of reminiscences by Iowans who are now Californians, but who still have a hard time getting Iowa out of their system.

Constable George Skillman of Fullerton sends me word that he won't see me Friday night but Thursday night. Oh, well, what's one day between friends. I can see him Thursday just as well as Friday. The only thing is what I intended to do on Thursday can wait until Friday.

Frank Hickey includes in his Owl Drug Co. sale items, bird seed. I'm going in and buy a nickel's worth. I have a friend who eats like a canary.

Who's the senegambian hiding behind the new agitation for parking meters? Haven't heard any SOS for that service for sometime. Must be inspired.

Rev. William Evert Roberts, "Bill" to some of us, talked before a service club this week. Came down from Los Angeles where he has been ever since leaving Santa Ana several years ago. But he is still the solid, straight-thinking citizen who believes religion and business will mix, and should. His welcome revealed he had lost none of his local popularity.

News item: "FDR relaxes in home." That's where I relax, too, but it doesn't happen to be my home.

Patrolman Foster has been occupying the municipal "bathtub" for a few days, during the absence of Patrolman Neer, but he didn't look anything like September morn. Neither does Neer, and I've been near both of 'em. However, they are the boogymen to parking violators, and if you think their service hasn't clarified the parking situation, you are probably one of those little "cooperators" who move just before the cop appears. This new fast side-car service has reduced the agitation for parking meters.

Well, when we honor the great American poet, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, next Sunday, we will be through with the month of birthdays, at least for the more famous. Some of us still hanging onto the other eleven months with the rest of the near-great.

I also picked a horse in the Santa Anita derby which also ran.

How are the wayfarers going to find their way home with the lights on the water tower burned out? Gee, a lantern, or sumpin' to help. Light has always been a signal of safety. Let's illuminate—the tower. It helped Paul Revere and the Minute Men.

Bill Penn has a relative here from Lincoln, Nebraska, who said this year they had a fine prospect for corn, and then the rain stayed away and ruined it. Last year the wheat crop wasn't so bad, but the price wasn't so hot. For the past four years weather inclemencies has made a wreck out of the farmer. We didn't do so well ourselves in Southern California last year. The midwest freeze moved into our territory and put a blot on the check book. However, for consecutive jolts we have been mighty lucky.

Looks like the voters gave Seattle back to the United States.

Tried to get a dozen donuts at Arthur's Do-Nut Shop in the Grand Central, for 12 cents. The adv. said I could do it, and Art said I couldn't, because the price was wrong. "Why," said Art, "the holes are worth that much." You can get a dozen luscious donuts for 29 cents, holes thrown (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

$855,000,000 for Schools - - FDR

Federal Grants For Education Urged By Advisory Group

WASHINGTON, (AP)—President Roosevelt transmitted to congress today a report of the advisory committee on education recommending new federal grants of $855,000,000 to states during the next six years to improve their public schools.

The grants, to begin a year hence at $70,000,000, would be increased approximately $30,000,000 each of the two following years and $20,000,000 each year thereafter until they reach $199,000,000 in 1944-45.

These grants would be in addition to the permanently authorized grants of more than $50,000,000 a year for vocational education.

The report said the recommendations were based on "more than a year of exhaustive study." Mr. Roosevelt appointed the committee in 1936 under the chairmanship of Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago.

CONCLUSIONS TOLD
In its general conclusions, the committee found:

"The public school system in the United States greatly needs improvement. Glaring inequalities characterize educational opportunities and expenditures for schools throughout the nation.

WORKERS ASK A NEW DEAL
Mexican Beet Labor Asks Consideration

Mexican field workers announce themselves as willing and anxious to work at the beet harvest, but—

"They want to deal directly with their employers without being forced to act through labor contractors."

In a statement issued today the "Uniones de Campesinos y Obreros Mexicanos" (Mexican Agricultural Labor Union) demands the abolition of the labor contract system as a condition of working in harvest.

The union is an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

The union's pronouncement in full follows:

YOUNG GUNMEN KILL MANAGER

HOLLYWOOD, (AP)—Two young well-dressed gunmen held up a crowded cafe on North Western avenue early today, killing the manager, H. A. Thompson, 38.

Sixty patrons saw the robbers, after drinking at a table, arise and draw pistols on Thompson, who was behind the bar.

One gunman demanded the contents of the cash register. The second waved Eddie Person, an entertainer, away from the microphone.

As Thompson stepped toward the register, one of the men apparently misunderstood his movement and shot him through the head.

The pair scooped up about $100 and fled in a car waiting outside. Thompson is survived by his widow and 17-year-old son. The cafe is known as "Burp Hollow."

Cowboy Beheaded When He Stalls Auto on Tracks

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Lee Darkdell, 35, Scottsdale, Ariz., cowboy and rodeo contestant, was decapitated today when he fled from his automobile stalled on the Southern Pacific tracks.

Had he remained in the car he likely would have escaped injury, investigators said. The radiator and front wheels were crumpled, but the windshield was not broken nor the body of the car crushed.

Mrs. Darkdell ran and escaped injury. Darkdell, paired with Joe Bassett, Comanche, Okla., in yesterday's rodeo contests here to win the team roping award. His share of the prize money was $390.

JAP LEADERS RECALLED FROM FRONT

Tokyo Fearful as Eight Die in Air Attack

TOKYO, (AP)—Chinese warplanes today raided Japan's island colony of Formosa, killing at least eight persons and wounding 29 in the first aerial bombardment suffered by any part of the Japanese empire.

The Formosa government general announced that three of seven persons killed at Taihoku, the colonial capital, were children. One person was killed at Shichiku City, near the island's northwestern coast.

Chikuto, near Shichiku, also was raided, and Domei, Japanese news agency, said several civilians were killed there. These were not included in the government figures.

Japanese accounts said seven planes took part in the raids.

CLAIM 70 PLANES
But Chinese reports from Hankow declared there were 70 planes in the air fleet, from a base on China's southeastern coast, including Russian-made craft flown by pilots of undisclosed nationality.

The Chinese figures were discounted by foreign authorities in Shanghai.

A "foreign legion of the air," including American, Russian, French and British volunteer pilots, recently has been reported taking an important role in China's air forces.

WOMAN HURT IN CAR FALL

Critically injured when she reportedly fell from a Pacific Electric car as she was getting off at the intersection of Fourth and Main streets last night, Miss Mayme Walsh, 65, 708 Lacy street, was believed recovering today in St. Joseph hospital.

The elderly Santa Ana woman sustained two broken arms and other injuries when she slipped on the cars steps, lost her balance and fell to the street.

Though Conductor H. R. White, who was getting off the car just behind Miss Walsh, told police he thought the woman was struck by the left front fender of a passing car driven by Ray Clifford Lambert, route 2 box 175, four other witnesses assertedly reported Lambert's car had already passed the car when the woman fell.

Witnesses included Mr. and Mrs. L. Nichols, 348 North Glassell street, Orange, Mrs. L. Davis, 335 South Glassell street, Orange, and Ray Floyd, 218 East Bishop street, Santa Ana. Floyd was standing on the curb at the corner, he told officers, and the other three were getting off the car along with Miss Walsh.

The injured woman was rushed to St. Joseph hospital.

British Labor Demands Foreign Policy Be Decided by Vote

LONDON, (AP)—The British labor party and trades union council issued a manifesto today demanding the government submit its foreign policy to an immediate general election.

"The government holds no mandate for the vital change it has made in foreign policy," the manifesto declared.

(The dominantly conservative national government campaigned for support in the election of 1935 with pledges of fidelity to the League of Nations, which Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain yesterday accused of "sham and pretence" in its efforts to safeguard European peace.)

The demand that Chamberlain's cabinet go to the country followed two consequences of the resignation of Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and the substitution of "realistic diplomacy" for his "idealism."

They were:

1. Failure yesterday of the opposition in the house of commons to pass a motion of censure on Chamberlain's foreign policy.

2. Forecasts in political circles today of an early approach to Germany on the lines of the prime minister's "realistic" bid for the friendship of Italy's Premier Mussolini.

Joachim Von Ribbentrop, Reichsfuehrer Hitler's new foreign minister and retiring ambassador to Britain, was reported in unofficial German circles to be coming to London shortly.

Ostensibly this would be to say his formal farewell to King George, but with Anthony Eden out of the way as foreign secretary it was believed he would have "useful exchanges of views" with British leaders.

The opposition in parliament marshalled forces for continued attacks on Chamberlain's new policy of seeking European appeasement outside the League of Nations, while the prime minister called the first meeting of the cabinet since Eden's resignation.

Chief business of the session was to draft instructions for the Earl

Pershing Better

Physicians announced that General John J. Pershing, famed U. S. war leader, was "definitely better" this morning after his serious illness was reported yesterday.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Physicians attending Gen. John J. Pershing said today, following a lengthy consultation, that the 77-year-old soldier "is definitely better."

A statement issued by Dr. Roland Davidson after he and Lieut. Col. S. U. Marietta had completed an examination said the condition of his heart, which caused considerable anxiety yesterday and last night following a sudden relapse, "is entirely satisfactory."

"Col. Marietta and myself have just completed an examination of General Pershing," said the bulletin. "There is very definite improvement in his condition since the last bulletin issued last night."

Water Battle Due Friday

Battle lines were being drawn today over another attempt to divert Santa Ana river water in upper counties.

Plans for a $22,863,909 flood control, water conservation and erosion prevention project on the upper Santa Ana river are to be submitted to army engineers Friday in a meeting at Riverside.

Sixty-three projects in all parts of San Bernardino county are included in the program, it was announced, with "the most needed projects" classified as those on the Santa Ana river.

Strenuous opposition from Orange county water interests was believed certain to develop. Similar attempts to control Santa Ana river runoff in the past have resulted in lengthy litigation and legal bickering between Riverside, San Bernardino and Orange county interests, on the grounds such projects prevent necessary irrigation water reaching Orange county.

The opposition backed the idealism of Anthony Eden, who designed the foreign secretaryship rather than pursue Italian friendship talks under circumstances which he held would indicate Britain was yielding to pressure from the fascist Premier Mussolini.

Chamberlain, who held it his duty to seek peace with Mussolini and Germany's Hitler, and avoid "the frightful question" of practical dealings by a 330 to 168 vote of confidence from the house of commons.

The conservative party premier planned to confer tomorrow with Viscount Halifax, acting as temporary foreign secretary, and with the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome.

Some members of the opposition indicated former cooperation with government policies would be changed to constant attacks in parliament with questions like: "Is Mussolini delivering the goods?"

Eden's friends said he would explain fully his position on Friday.

Boice Trial Drags As Attorneys Fuss Over Parking Jury

Spectators who jammed and squeezed their way into Orange justice court today for the $7.80 petty theft trial of Mayor A. C. Boice went back home at noon—none the wiser for their efforts. Two hours of wrangling by Deputy District Attorney Preston Turner and Defense Attorney Alec P. Nelson exhausted the regular jury panel, with 15 pre-emptory challenges remaining, five of them for the state.

Eleven jurors had been tentatively selected by noon. Turner had exercised five pre-emptory challenges, and nine jurors had been excused for cause. Most indicated they had formed a decided opinion on the case.

Indications as Judge D. J. Dodge issued a call for a special jury venire were that the state would exercise all its remaining challenges. The defense appeared willing to accept the 12 jurors who first filed into the box.

Tentatively selected to hear charges Mayor Boice had misappropriated $7.80 worth of city gasoline were six men and five women. Weeded out were two gasoline dealers, a service station proprietor, and the wife of a Standard Oil employee.

It required 40 minutes of examination to seat the first juror, after four prospective members of the panel had undergone rigorous questioning by Turner.

Selection of a jury will culminate a stormy controversy which began a month ago and resulted in formal charges against Boice, filed Feb. 4 in Justice Cal. D. Lester's court. Lester later disqualified himself, naming Dodge to fill his post.

Mayor Boice has charged the "conspiracy" was entered into by Councilman J. E. Riley and Justice Lester, in an effort to gain control of the Orange city council. Turner indicated the probable course the prosecution would take when he repeatedly stressed the point in examination of jurors that "restoration of stolen property is no defense against a theft charge."

Civic Bodies to Aid Traffic Board
Delegates from a number of prominent civic and service organizations in Santa Ana are being named to serve jointly with the Santa Ana traffic safety commission.

It is hoped these representatives, one from each organization, will offer helpful suggestions to the traffic commission at their meetings to stop auto accidents in Santa Ana, according to Elmer Heidt, chairman of the commission.

Proposed purchase of an iron lung for the Orange county hospital was dunked in cold water today when Harry Riley, hospital committeeman for the board of supervisors, told the board there "never has been a case in the county where possession of an iron lung would have helped."

Riley, delegated last week to investigate a request by the Crippled Children's society that the county purchase the machine, made a preliminary report at today's meeting of the supervisors and said he would have a definite recommendation ready by March 8.

The machine, together with accessories, would cost from $1500 to $1700, Riley told the board.

Dr. Harry E. Zaiser, hospital superintendent, now is investigating the situation, Riley said, in an attempt to find where the nearest machine is located.

CHANGES AT HOSPITAL ADVISED

One-Man Minority Report Turned in

N. E. West and his fellow county supervisors were slapped sharply today by the 1937 grand jury, which finished its work and was discharged by Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

Justin H. Stewart, Santa Ana rancher, submitted a one-man minority report terming ouster charges against West "not justified by the evidence."

The jury's two-page report, one of the shortest on record, was almost half-filled by a discussion of West's charges against county officials, one of which the jury termed justified.

Lack of cooperation between supervisors and other officials was scored in committee reports filed by Foreman J. A. Beek along with the 18-man majority report. Stewart told Judge Ames he dissented only in the West accusation.

Committees and the jury rapped the supervisors on nine counts, ranging from equipment at the county hospital to failure to cooperate with Dist. Atty. W. F. Menton. (Controversial parts of the salary ordinance were written at the board's order by an outside attorney.)

ROTARY CLUB TOLD 'HOW'

If there is to be a turning in this county back toward true democracy, it must come from small groups like the Rotary club.

The Rev. William Roberts, former Santa Ana man who is now pastor of the West Adams Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, brought this message to local Rotarians at their weekly luncheon in the Masonic temple yesterday.

The spirit of contentment for democracy is abroad in America today through an attitude that dictatorship is more efficient than our traditional form of government, he warned.

The speaker was introduced by Alex Brownridge, President John McCoy held the gavel. George King, local theater manager, was welcomed as a new member.

RILEY OPPOSES 'IRON LUNG'

Proposed purchase of an iron lung for the Orange county hospital was dunked in cold water today when Harry Riley, hospital committeeman for the board of supervisors, told the board there "never has been a case in the county where possession of an iron lung would have helped."

Demand Wartime Secrecy for U. S. Fleet War Games

SHIPS FOR ATLANTIC ARE SOUGHT

Separate Unit for Protection Urged

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The navy surrounded with wartime secrecy today its forthcoming fleet maneuvers in the Pacific where more than 50,000 men and officers will test the fighting strength of 150 war craft.

Naval officials disclosed the secrecy order while the house naval committee heard Rear Admiral William B. DuBose, chief of naval construction, testify it would cost $3,200,000,000 to provide a separate fleet to defend the Atlantic coast.

PRESS BARRED
The navy's order barred newspaper representatives from all the fighting craft which will maneuver over the Pacific from Alaska to Samoa and the Panama canal from the middle of March to late April.

The decision, the navy said, was made by Secretary Swanson after conferences with Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of operations, and the fleet commander-in-chief, Admiral Claude C. Bloch.

The only explanation given was that fleet problem No. 1, to be worked out in six weeks of mock warfare, was "highly confidential." Publicity this year, the navy said, will be limited to interviews with Admiral Bloch before and after the war games.

ATLANTIC FLEET
Testifying before the house naval committee, DuBose said an independent Atlantic fleet would require 166 fighting ships costing about $2,800,000,000 and 53 auxiliary vessels at a cost of approximately $400,000,000.

Such a fleet, he said, could be built in about 10 years if the facilities at both navy and private shipyards were expanded sufficiently.

DuBose outlined the size and cost of an Atlantic fleet in response to questions propounded several days ago by Representative Brewster (R., Me.).

FLEET REQUEST
The admiral said his figures had been compiled after consultation with Admiral Leahy, about the number and type of vessels such a fleet would require.

DuBose said the fighting craft necessary for adequate defense in the Atlantic would include 12 battleships, six aircraft carriers, 17 heavy cruisers, 18 light cruisers, 77 destroyers and 36 submarines.

The 20 per cent increase in naval strength being studied by the committee would give the navy only three more battleships and bring its total in this category to 18.

DuBose's testimony was received when the committee resumed hearings to inquire into the cost of an additional 1000 airplanes.

He has in the making a 1500 attendance convention scheduled for Riverside. The boys are going to meet up there to make some selections which the voters will have something to say about later on. I've always thought the best procedure was to let the aspiring suds do their own announcing, and the party pick out its choice at the polls.

CHINESE BOMB FORMOSA

was made conscious of the perils of air attack by air defense maneuvers which began today in the Tokyo-Yokohama area. Previously the Japanese public had been led to believe Japanese air forces had complete command of the air in China.

It was the first time since 1864, when a British-French-Dutch fleet bombarded Shimonoseki, that territory of the Japanese empire had been subjected to hostile foreign bombardment. It was the empire's first air raid.

FIRST ATTACK
It was the first time in centuries an enemy had touched the earth of the Japanese empire.

An hour before noon, the raiders swung over the Japanese air base on the outskirts of Taihoku, Formosa capital, and dropped 10 bombs. A city of 276,000, Taihoku is near the northern tip of the island, approximately 120 miles west of the southeastern coast of China.

There was only slight damage to the field.

The raiders then bombarded points in Shichiku province, on the western coast of the island.

3 HIGH JAP COMMANDERS RECALLED FOR LOSSES

SHANGHAI, (AP)—Recall of three of the highest Japanese commanders was announced today in the midst of reports that Japanese had suffered a sharp setback on the front north of Nanking.

Japanese army headquarters announced officially that General Shunroku Hata, inspector of military education in Japan, was stepping into the shoes of Gen. Iwano, as commander-in-chief of Japanese forces in the Shanghai-Nanking area.

RECALL KNOWN
Matsu's recall because of the success of Chinese counterattacks, breaches of discipline in the Japanese army, and friction with other nations, became known unofficially last week.

The army has adopted a revised organization designed to meet the new situation under the command of General Hata, the announcement said. "Thus the second phase of hostilities has begun on the basis of the government's firm policy of realizing its objectives in the dispatch of expeditionary forces to China."

OTHERS RECALLED
The other two high officers ordered back to Tokyo were Lieut. Gen. Prince Yasuhiko Asaka, commander of Japanese expeditionary forces, and Lieut. Gen. Heisuke Yanagawa, commander of the Hangchow bay landing force.

General Hata faced the task of reorganizing Japanese central forces to provide fresh impetus for drives against the vital Lung-hai corridor. Chinese have blocked the drives in some sectors and in others they were floundering.

RELIEF STEPS CONTEMPLATED

SAN BERNARDINO, (AP)—C. E. Grier, president of the California Supervisor's association, today took steps to avert bankruptcy of many counties in which the cost of relief under the liberalized state laws has more than doubled within the past two years.

Grier announced a meeting of representatives of 13 statewide organizations, to form a permanent group to draft a legislative program for equitable distribution of the relief burden between the state and counties, will be held in San Francisco March 4.

CONGRESSIONAL PLANS Quiz on Prices

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Chairman Copeland (D., N. Y.) said today the senate commerce committee favored a broad investigation of prices of principal commodities.

The New Yorker said the committee would approve a resolution by Senator Bailey (D., N. C.), recommending $25,000 be spent by the senate group for a "full investigation of costs, prices and profits of the principal commodities of our commerce."

This would be in line with President Roosevelt's recent statement that prices of some commodities, including farm products, should advance without increasing the cost of living.

CHAMBERS RAP 'DIGNITY' RULE

be to edit stories before they appeared in the papers.

The seven objectives as outlined for the Associated chambers follow:

1. To insist upon the same high standards of dignity, courtesy and efficiency in county government that prevail in the conduct of private business.

2. To support the County Planning commission in its effort to develop a protective zoning for land use within the county, and in the designation of areas best suited for industrial development.

3. To support the county authorities in their present rural policing program and urge its continuance on an adequate basis.

4. To encourage development of a program for the protection of county beaches against pollution and erosion and for the conservation of these beaches for public use.

5. To encourage importation of Colorado river water for use on agricultural lands without requiring those lands to assume all the responsibilities of membership in the Metropolitan Water district.

6. To urge upon the board of supervisors the development and adoption of a policy for the acquisition of lands necessary for completion of the county's flood control project.

7. To urge furtherance of necessary local projects for protection of property from local storm runoff.

TO BUY BOOKS

Part of the general aid fund, it said, should be spent in purchasing textbooks and reading materials for transportation of pupils, scholarships for pupils 16 to 19 years of age, and for health and welfare services.

The committee recommended an equitable distribution of the federal funds between white and negro schools in states where separate negro schools exist without reducing the proportion of state and local funds spent on negro schools.

CCC CHANGE

The Civilian Conservation corps and the National Youth administration, the committee said, should be placed under the direction of a single federal agency to be known as the Federal Youth Service administration.

In addition to the grants the committee recommended creation of a research fund of $125,000 for the fiscal year beginning next July and increasing to $3,000,000 for later years.

The committee was composed of teachers, government officials, labor leaders, churchmen and business men.

MILLIONS ASKED FOR SCHOOLS

ice that can be maintained under the present circumstances in many localities is below the minimum necessary for the preservation of democratic institutions.

"Federal aid is the only way in which the difficulties in this widespread and complex situation can be adequately corrected."

SIX CATEGORIES

The committee proposed division of the new grants into six major categories, as follows, the first sum being for the starting year of 1939-40 and the second for the maximum in 1944-45:

1—General aid to elementary and secondary education, $40,000,000—$140,000,000.

2—Improved preparation of teachers, $2,000,000—$6,000,000.

3—Construction of school buildings to facilitate district reorganization, $20,000,000—$30,000,000.

4—Administration of state departments of education, $1,000,000—$2,000,000.

5—Educational service for adults, $5,000,000—$15,000,000.

6—Library service for rural areas, $2,000,000—$6,000,000.

The report emphasized the first item should be distributed among the states in proportion to their financial needs. The share of wealthy states, it said, must be small if the schools are to be materially improved in poorer states.

Among the more significant recommendations were proposals that pupils of parochial and other non-public schools share to a limited extent in the grants.

Part of the general aid fund, it said, should be spent in purchasing textbooks and reading materials for transportation of pupils, scholarships for pupils 16 to 19 years of age, and for health and welfare services.

GRAND JURY GIVES BRIEF REPORT

Text of today's grand jury report, believed one of the briefest on record, is presented herewith.

Justin H. Stewart's one-man minority report, in which he disagreed on the N. E. West question with the other 18 jurors, follows the majority report.

Hon. Homer G. Ames, Judge of the Superior Court.

Dear Sir: Pursuant to instructions of the court, we have investigated each of the departments of county government. We employed expert accountants to audit the records of all of these departments and all of the county officers charged with the handling of public funds. Such audits have not in any case revealed shortages or indications of anything but honesty in the conduct of such officers.

Changes were filed with us alleging that certain county officers were withholding sums of money due the county from fees collected by such officers. It was also charged that the county sheriff is receiving an unreasonable and excessive compensation from salary and fees, which was estimated by the complainant at from $20,000 to $25,000 a year. It was ascertained that the officers complained of are acting on the advice of the district attorney. Certain of these officers had collected no fees during the time set forth in the allegation. All of them are settling aside the amounts received from the complainant at from $20,000 to $25,000 a year. It was determined by competent legal authority that it is their duty to do so. Careful audit, covering the past three years, including inspection of the sheriff's income tax returns, indicated that his total income for the year 1936-37 was $20,000 a year has been considerably less than that amount.

Another complaint was made charging the county assessor with securing and selling assessor's maps and not paying for the same. The complaint estimated that from $30,000 to $50,000 this charge was found to be without foundation in fact, the head of the concern preparing the maps stating under oath that the assessor had always paid him promptly for all maps delivered.

A document was filed with us purporting to show that members of the board of supervisors have been using county-owned gasoline in their automobiles and making a practice of having such gasoline billed to the county at an excessive price. Careful investigation failed to develop any evidence to support this allegation.

Charges were made against the management of the juvenile home, complainant alleging that a certain "good" boy in the home, having him in custody and improperly incarcerated there. Upon investigation we found that the "good" boy in question had been picked up intoxicated on the grounds of the school he was supposed to be attending and had later pulled a gun on the officer having him in custody and had admitted, after being deprived of this weapon, that it had been his intention to shoot the officer. Other charges proved to be equally untenable.

Numerous other charges were made against county officials and officials of municipalities within the county, which were investigated, and where action appeared to be justified, appropriate action was taken. Where no evidence confirming such charges was produced, the matters were dropped.

As a result of our survey of county affairs in general, we respectfully offer the following recommendations:

1. That the county hospital be supplied with more adequate housing, more modern equipment and additional nurses.

2. That the juvenile home be permitted to use a portion of its property, which is now rented, for a garden; that additional necessary buildings be constructed, and such additional assistants employed as the committee in charge deems necessary.

3. That the county board of harbor commissioners give consideration to the matter of supplying the harbor department of Newport Harbor with a boat equipped for life saving and fire-fighting equipment.

4. That the treasurer's office be modernized to the end that county funds and negotiable securities in the treasurer's hands be properly safeguarded.

5. That justices of the peace and constables adopt the use of triplicate receipts and standard records, forms for which may be secured through the purchasing agent.

6. That all law enforcement agencies of the county devote themselves diligently to the enforcement of laws relating to the use of motor vehicles—not that motorists be harassed for inadvertent violations of minor importance, but that such crimes as driving an automobile while intoxicated and excessive speeding be stamped out to the end that the use of our highways be made safe for law-abiding citizens.

7. That while there is widespread unemployment with millions of people receiving gifts of public money for their personal sustenance it is to the best interests of the people of Orange county that not more than one member of any immediate family be employed in any public work within the county, except in such rare and unusual instances as it might be necessary in the interest of charges by West in the fee-confiscation controversy, make less than $10,000 a year; the jury reported after probing Jackson's income tax returns. A committee report recommended against any change in Jackson's fees, on grounds that:

"It would be a grave mistake to render the office unattractive to a man of character and courage. It must be remembered that antisocial interests are always ready to corrupt police officers who lack character."

West had charged Jackson made from $20,000 to $25,000 a year from his office.

Assessor James Sleeper, target of West's allegation, that from $3000 to $5000 in map-sale collections had not been turned in, was cleared by the jury, stating the charge to be "without foundation in fact."

The "good" boy whom West said was unjustly incarcerated in the juvenile home, the jury pointed out, had been picked up for intoxication and pulled a gun on juvenile Probation Officer Carl Warner.

The jury recommended more adequate housing, equipment and additional nurses for the hospital, use of juvenile home land for a garden and additional employees, purchase of a life-saving and fire boat for Newport harbor, modernization of the treasurer's office, adoption of standard forms by constables and justices of the peace, strict enforcement of traffic laws to make the highways safe, and employment of not more than one member of a family in county government.

Committee reports scored supervisors for interference in the purchasing department, reduction of mileage, failure to work with House Atty. Menton, failure to take fees away from Sheriff Jackson, and setting up a county coordinator without necessity at present.

Uniforms for sheriff's officers were recommended by a committee. Jackson already has ordered his deputies to buy uniforms, for which the deputies will pay in the neighborhood of $75.

Sewart's minority report referred to last year's grand jury, which slapped Supervisor John Mitchell for revealing the Eden "watered oil" scandal. It termed the new salary ordinance, which started all the furore, a "good one for the county as a whole" and "legal."

of public welfare so to do.

GRAND JURY OF ORANGE COUNTY.

J. A. BECK, Foreman.

Attest: Frank N. Gibbs, Clerk.

MINORITY REPORT

Minority report of Grand Juryman Justin H. Stewart:

To the Honorable H. G. Ames, Judge of the superior court: The majority is not always right.

Last year the grand jury launched an attack against the integrity of one of our supervisors. Later events have proved that he was only doing his duty and protecting the interests of the taxpayers.

Last year only one of the grand jurors was right. The new fees and salaries ordinance seems to be very distasteful to one or more of our county officials.

In my opinion the ordinance, with a few minor adjustments which can be made later, is a good one for the county as a whole. I believe it is legal and should be enforced.

The charges against Supervisor N. E. West, the ones which seem by their gravity to call for his removal from office, are in my opinion not justified by the evidence, and I voted against the charges on that account.

Dated this 16th day of February, 1938. J. H. STEWART.

Town Pays Taxes, Lights Turned On

MONONGAHELA, Pa. (AP)—Residents of this western Pennsylvania borough of 2000 have seen the light—through darkness.

A month ago the treasury was exhausted, so council ordered all street lights darkened.

Then, apprehensive of burglaries, citizens began paying overdue tax bills, enabling the borough and a power company to sign a five-year contract for 47 street lights.

RUSH AID TO FOUR SHIPS IN ATLANTIC

BOSTON, (AP)—Storm-tossed seas delayed relief vessels speeding today to the aid of four disabled freighters in the North Atlantic.

Two vessels, the 2357-ton Norwegian freighter Victo and the 5598-ton American cargo boat Azalea City, had lost propellers.

The steering gear of the 2404-ton Latvian freighter Everhope was carried away 300 miles off Cape Race, N. F., on her way from Antwerp to New York, and the 1200-ton British motorship Lyca was disabled by engine trouble 750 miles east of Bermuda.

The Victo, bound for European ports from Norfolk, Va., fought heavy seas near the Azores while awaiting the arrival of the Dutch tug Sea Foam from Horta.

The Azalea City, owned by the Waterman Steamship company of Mobile, Ala., and operating between Gulf ports and Europe, was towed in a gale 135 miles south-east of Cape Race, awaiting the salvage tug Relief from New York.

The Coast Guard cutter Chelan and the Halifax salvage tug Foundation Franklin stood by, the cutter still unable to get a tow line aboard the freighter.

The Lyca and the Victo reported they were in distress last night. The motorship was bound for Philadelphia and Norfolk, Va., from Fowey, England. The Foundation Franklin related word of their distress to Halifax.

BOARD TO BUY LAND FOR DAM

First definite move to purchase land back of the proposed Prada dam was made today with approval by the board of supervisors of an option on 75 acres immediately behind the proposed dam.

The option, which called for purchase of two parcels of land from Willie W. West and Esther West of China at an official appraised value of $12,000, was presented by C. H. Chapman, head of the county flood control land department.

Options on several other nearby pieces of property are expected to be secured within the next few weeks, Chapman indicated.

WORKERS ASK NEW DEAL

Orange county do hereby protest and resolve:

That we as best workers within Orange county do hereby make it known that, we are willing and able to assist every best grower of the county, to harvest his crop in due time and with the best of harmony.

That in return we do hereby ask every and each grower within the said county, to disregard once and for all the system of labor contractors, a system that has been for many years and that it is prevailing in every best field; that we believe and do hereby make known that the contractor system, is detrimental to our Mexican colony.

Therefore, we wish at this time to make known to each and every one in this county, that unless this protest is taken into consideration, we will not be able to keep the desired harmony for industrial peace."

Bandit Escapes Police in Thrilling Chase

VICTIM OF ROBBERY IN NIGHT RIDE

Gas Station Man Follows With Rifle

Thrilling midnight pursuit of a suspected bandit came to a disappointing anticlimax early today when city, county and state police cars gave up the search with the robber still at large.

Officers swarmed over northern Orange county highways last night when Ed Sukosky, attendant at a Manchester boulevard service station who was held up and robbed of $25 after being slugged by his assailant two weeks ago, reported seeing the bandit drive past his station early last night.

Since there was no 'phone at the service station, owned by Elmer Smith, Sukosky grabbed a 30-30 rifle, jumped in his car and chased the bandit suspect as far as Buena Park. He stopped long enough to call the sheriff's office, and when he resumed the chase the fleeing car was out of sight.

Anahiem police, deputy sheriffs and highway patrolmen speedily blanketed nearby highways, but the man was not seen again.

Sukosky had described the fugitive as being about 24 years of age, 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing 145 pounds. Both during the robbery and last night, the man was driving a dark colored sedan with no license plates. Sukosky reported, although he was not sure whether the car was the same as that used two weeks ago.

Farmer Protests Raids from Hobo Headquarters

A long series of petty thefts from his farm today had prompted E. R. Merriweather, route 1, box 1314, Orange, to “demand protection” against raids apparently made by residents of a “hobo camp” near his property.

Thefts during the past two months, he said, have included about 150 pounds of avocados, numerous tree trunks, fence posts and thermometer boxes. He told the sheriff's office he had been trying to get the hobo camp moved away for the past eight weeks, but that no action had been taken.

He asked that the sheriff's fruit patrol make nightly tours of his property until the camp is moved.

“As for myself,” he said within hearing of the 103 spectators, largest number ever to attend an execution here, “All I have to say is ‘good-bye Edith.’”

“Edith” is Edith Grimm, the young girl on the farm near Mount Vernon, Wash., with whom Hawkins was enamored, and over whom he said he slew his brothers, Ernest and Floyd Grimm.

RIVER PERILS TINY TOWN IN ARKANSAS

FULTON, Ark. (AP)—Raging waters of the Red river today threatened to force evacuation of this little Southwest Arkansas town, where more than a century ago French and Spanish traders bartered to the Indians goods brought upstream from New Orleans.

A few townspeople departed last night but most remained, hopeful that the giant protecting levee again would perform the task for which it was built more than 30 years ago.

The stream, at an all-time high of 35.7 feet, was several feet higher than the town itself, snuggling behind the dike, and lapped within a few inches of the top of the levee. The previous high stage, in 1927, was 35.6.

Why the majority of the 593 inhabitants did not flee was summed up by Ben A. Wilson, a resident for the past 29 years:

“Most of the people have lived here so long they are not afraid—they just can't believe that the levee won't hold.”

A levee break three miles east of here aggravated Fulton's situation. Water poring through the break started backing up toward the town. Two hundred and fifty WPA workers and scores of volunteers threw up an emergency levee in an attempt to halt the backwater.

Two other breaks to the west inundated thousands of acres of rich farm lands and caused closing at index of the trunk line highway through West Arkansas from Texarkana to Fort Smith.

JUDGES TO AID TRAFFIC SCHOOL

H. G. Ames and James L. Allen, Orange county superior court judges, have agreed to cooperate with the city traffic commission in its proposal to install a school here for traffic violators, according to Elmer Heidt, committee chairman.

These two judges, together with Justice Kenneth Morrison and Capt. H. C. Meehan of the California highway patrol, will appear before the committee at its next meeting, March 14, when the school will be discussed.

Heidt said today a course of study recommended by the state for traffic violators is already in the hands of the traffic safety committee. Schools in other communities are being conducted satisfactorily.

If the plan is put into effect here all traffic violators, adults and juveniles, would be required by court order to enter it as part of the sentence. Before a “pupil” is released from the court of study he would be required to satisfactorily pass an examination on what he had studied.

RAMBLING
ORANGE COUNTY
—with—
T. N.
(BRICK)
GAINES

How many folks—that is, folks who don't live in Laguna, El Toro and San Juan Capistrano—have tried out the new highway which runs over the hills and far away from the artist colony to the Bull colony?

If you haven't, try it out. Neither had I, until a letter came in from Mrs. Carrie G. Drews at El Toro. She told of opening of that territory in such an interesting fashion that I couldn't help but try the road. Here's what she had to say:

"The El Toro-Laguna road, a shortcut through the Moulton ranch, is being enjoyed more every day by those who have learned of its improvement. It's a beautiful drive the year 'round, with its fields, and hills covered with wild flowers in season, and odd-shaped rocks, some with Indian symbols still on them.

Petrified wood and Indian relics are found here, also beds of deep-sea shells. And one hill, a little to the east, is made up almost completely of decomposed oyster shells. In several places sand and sea shells have been plowed up by the ranchers, and a buried treasure is supposed to be hidden in the district.

As one glides over this lovely road, one remembers back a few years when the narrow road wound back and forth, dust clouds followed the conveyance and there were numerous gates to open. Many years ago there was a sheep camp there, with thousands of sheep, a shepherd and his dogs. But now, they have underpasses for the cattle, while before many the time we would have to stop the horse and buggy and wait for a lot of fighting bulls to move off the road. A Laguna woman related an experience in this El Toro canyon when her wagon, loaded with fish boxes, broke down. She unhitched her horses and tied them to a wheel and went for aid.

When she returned with help, the horses were gone and the wagon was a complete wreck. The bulls had torn it all to pieces!

However, as Mrs. Drews points out, the bully underpasses have done away with any danger of wild animals attacking travelers. The road is cut in several places to allow bulls and their herds to cross underneath. The critters seem to like the miniature highways, too, as I saw several of 'em crossing from one field to the next via the underground route.

If you want to try this road, just pop out through Irvine and go ahead to the El Toro road intersection. Then turn right. Simple, huh?

Incidentally, I was wondering why such a road, when there are so many others leading for Laguna, but a resident pointed out it makes traveling much better for folks who have cabins in Silverado canyon, also for folks to go from El Toro to the beach.

Which settled that!

Still laughing over a "social" item which appeared in one of Art McBride's publications in La Habra the other day. It concerned a very sad occasion, when a garage was burned, but he made even the owners feel better (I hope) with the complete coverage on the story.

The fire, it was reported, occurred in the A. LeBar garage on Greenwood street. It started one night and lasted until the next morning, having been shortly before midnight.

By special invitation, said the tale, Burt Burnip, driving a big red wagon with a horn on it, attended, bringing a group of friends. As it turned out, this gang was the ruin of the affair. They happened to see a fire hydrant less than a block away and couldn't resist the temptation to put a hose on it. In a few minutes there was nothing left of the main attraction but smoke and mud.

Then the story discusses at length alleged properties of the old and new city wells in La Habra. The boys, it is claimed, didn't want to use the old well water because it was getting dry and didn't squirt as well. But that's beside the point.

It was discussion of various garments worn to the affair that appealed to this department. Like: "The common run of guests gathered quickly. Harlan (Powder Creek) Savage looked very fetching in a cowboy nightshirt while Homer Holzgrate was simply stunning in a set of purple pajamas. Rob Vanderhoof would have gotten there more quickly if he hadn't put his shoes on the wrong feet.

"Councilman George Clark was on the scene early displaying a novel effect in shirt-tails. Don Brookmeyer's appearance was marred by the fact that he had both socks on the same foot. O. T. Stephens started to drive over from his home half a block away but couldn't start the car. He ran the battery down before discovering he had forgotten to turn on the switch. Disgusted, he refused to attend at all.

"Bill Gluth showed up with a cigar stub in his mouth. He said he had forgotten to remove it before going to bed. Jack Young stayed in bed but sent his wife and then complained bitterly that when she came back her feet were like ice.

"John Smith failed to attend because he couldn't find his pants

Associated Hears Need for County Housing

MORE HOMES SOUGHT FOR COUNTY

Civic Reports Feature Midway City Session

MIDWAY CITY.—Although Orange county is continuing toward a new prosperity, a shortage of homes is felt throughout all settled districts, it was revealed at a meeting of the associated chambers of commerce here last night in annual progress reports from communities.

Almost every delegate stressed need of additional housing to care for an ever-increasing stream of new residents in reporting on conditions in his area as President Jack Grill called for the annual survey of conditions.

New industries for Anaheim were reported by John Morgan, new secretary of the chamber. He also explained new methods of holding weekly and monthly meetings for Anaheim merchants and predicted a banner year for chamber of commerce activities in his area.

COSTA MESA BOOMS

Dr. C. G. Huston, reporting for Costa Mesa, said a wave of building and new industries and a beautification program featured activities in his district. Private ownership of homes is eliminating the transient type of resident, he said, for the betterment of the community. Dr. Huston also pointed to a new fire engine for the area and construction of a new fire hall as advancements.

Housing is the biggest problem facing Fullerton, Howard Irvine reported for that chamber of commerce. Many prospective residents are forced to go elsewhere to live because of the present situation, he added. Fullerton enjoyed a successful business year in spite of last year's freeze, he said, and the city either may move to annex Buena Park or aid in an incorporation move there.

FLOOD HAZARD

Solving of the flood hazard through construction of storm drains has been the main advancement for Garden Grove during the past year, H. Clay Kellogg said, also pointing to park improvements as a definite community advancement.

Elmer Crawford of South Laguna told of increased building and highway beautification in the south coast area. W. H. Crofoot, heading a record delegation from Los Alamitos, told of reorganization of the chamber of commerce in the past few weeks, and of an ambitious community program for the coming year. The Los Alamitos group won an attendance battle with Midway City for delegates attending the meeting.

Greatest need for Midway City area is more highways, Ed L. Hensley, chamber of commerce president, said, in outlining a program for attaining better communication with inland and beach districts. Aim of the chamber for this year is continuation of Westminster boulevard to Long Beach, he said.

ORANGE HOMES

Ray Stull also pointed to a lack of housing in Orange in spite of the fact that 30 new homes were built there during the past year. He also pointed to new storm drains and sewer system additions, as well as a new railroad depot now under construction as indications of advancement.

Proudly reporting that Placentia is almost bond-free, Frank Rospaw, new president of the chamber of commerce there, told of establishment of a new high school district and construction of a $800,000 plant without issuance of bonds.

TUSTIN IMPROVES

Clyde Simmons, reporting for Tustin, said more than $200,000 in additions to packing plants had been completed there, and cited other community improvements.

R. E. Burns told of efforts to obtain better telephone service for the Westminster area and of a general improvement program planned for the community. Oil development and completion of Imperial highway into Yorba Linda were cited by George Kellogg.

A home building campaign in Huntington Beach, start of work on a $50,000 beach pavilion and proposed acquisition of $110,000 in new city land were told by W. J. Bristol.

The next meeting will be held in Santa Ana, with election of officers a feature, President Grill announced. Dinner was served by members of the Midway City Woman's club.

Racketeers of Ancient Egypt Reported Crimes

BERKELEY.—Racketeers in the United States have become notorious, but when it comes to brass the racketeers of ancient Egypt had a decided edge, according to a new publication by Prof. Henry F. Lutz, Egyptologist.

They so intimidated the Egyptian government they were given legal recognition, registering themselves as highwaymen, the California University Press publication points out. They gave the government reports of what they stole, where the crime occurred and who the victims were. Victims could recover their property by paying ransom.

Somewhat the same situation existed in India, Professor Lutz states, where religious groups were accorded the privilege of brigandage to gain a livelihood.

CHAPTER FIVE

It was evident that there was going to be action shortly. He made his way to entrance number three. A short distance from the entrance two black-clad monks were lounging.

"Blast!" said Mahony briefly. He realized that he was in a wrong costume. He hurried to the men's cloak-room, changed his costume about, and returned as quickly as he could to entrance number three. During his absence the black-clad monks had been joined by another monk dressed in dark-brown. He hung about near them, waiting for the right moment.

By this time the gaily had reached its highest pitch; everyone was noisy and excited. A thousand people were enjoying themselves irresponsibly and a little drunkenly, not caring what anybody thought of them or how much row they kicked up.

As the floor emptied, Mahony caught sight of Elsa and the Charles the Second coming towards the exit. When she was nearing the exit, the monk in brown stepped forward. The black monks drew closer together, as if preparing for action.

"Hail!" Queen of Hearts!" exclaimed the brown monk in a loud, jovial voice. "Let us salute her, brothers."

He made a flamboyant gesture with his right hand, beckoning the black-clad monks. Laughing loudly, they ran forward, surrounding Elsa. Mahony went with them. It was his intention to stay with those monks as long as he could, and find out what they meant to do.

"Form a circle," commanded the brown monk. "Dance, brothers, dance."

The masked figures joined hands, forming a circle, and began to dance wildly round Elsa and the Charles the Second. It all looked perfectly natural and harmless, merely a rag by a small party of people occupying a small space on the dance floor. Elsa stood in the middle of the circle, laughing; the sight of those solemn figures capering round her amused her. "Let's take her to the monastery, brothers," shouted the brown monk suddenly.

He plunged into the middle of the circle, picked up Elsa's light figure easily in his arms, and began to carry her towards one of the exits.

"Make way for the Queen of Hearts," he shouted.

Laughing and shouting, the other monks crowded round him, clearing a way through the throng. Nobody attempted to interfere; it was still so obviously merely a harmless rag by a small party of irresponsibles. And Elsa did not seem to mind much. One effort she made to escape from her captors' arms; then she remained quiet and ceased to struggle.

Shouting and singing, the party surged along a passage, crossed the vestibule, and went out by the main doorway of the hall into the street outside. A short distance

SPEAKER GIVES VIEWS ON BALKANS

The Balkans are Europe's bread basket—bid for by all the great powers for that reason.

That was Dean Calvin Flint's diagnosis of the central European situation, given last night before a citizens' forum audience in the Unitarian church.

Italy, Germany, Britain and France all are weakened without the promise of alliances with these wheat-growing, grazing countries, Flint said, giving rise to a behind-the-scenes struggle for favorable pacts with the Bulgarians, Hungary and other small central European states.

The balance seems to be swinging, he concluded, toward alliances with the Fascist states, in hope of security on both sides. Great Britain, he said, seemed unable to "bluff" these countries as she might have done before.

In support of this view, Flint reasoned that Britain apparently had given Germany carte blanche to expand eastward if it wished—without threat of interference from England. Even Russia, neglecting its western frontiers to guard in the east against Japan, seems acquiescent, Flint said, to such a program.

One of the best forum crowds in recent weeks filled the church auditorium to hear the junior college instructor. Dean Flint was introduced by Dr. Marguerite Baker of the school board.

Famous Pianist Loses Audience, Program Shortage

SALT LAKE CITY. (AP)—An audience unwittingly walked out on Concert Pianist Josef Hofmann here and lack of programs was blamed for the situation.

Hofmann opened his program with three long movements from a Beethoven composition. He rested briefly, then executed six movements of Shumann's Kreisleriana and a group of four compositions by Chopin.

Hofmann, amid thunderous applause, left the stage. The audience moved out of the auditorium thinking the concert was over.

TOWNSEND NEWS, VIEWS

By WALTER R. ROBB

County Clerk B. J. Smith has assured the writer of his willingness to aid the Townsends with such services as his office can give in helping them take the necessary steps to found the Townsend party. He also expresses a desire that the Townsends cooperate with him in making the change of party affiliations as simple as possible for his office. These party affiliation changes he pointed out could be made more easily for his office if they were done when possible at the courthouse. However, the deputy registrars on the street and out in the county will be able to assist such voters, when coming to the courthouse isn't possible or practical.

Beginning this week the county clerk has equipped his office with certificate forms which can be obtained when desired, showing when Townsend voters have been registered in affiliation with the Townsend party. This service will be given without cost to all who desire it. This certificate will be especially valuable to Townsend speakers since it is likely that in the near future no speakers will be allowed before the Townsend clubs who cannot produce proof that they have registered in the Townsend party. It will also be valuable for determining in Townsend gatherings just what progress is being made in forming the new political party.

There are several very important matters for all who wish to affiliate with the Townsend party to keep in mind when making the party affiliation change:

1. Be sure whether you are registered as a Democrat or Republican or otherwise and make certain that the deputy registrar has properly stated same on the party affiliation change affidavit before you sign it. If same is incorrect your change of affiliation affidavit would be discarded when checked at the courthouse and your effort to change party connections would have been in vain.
2. If you are a registered voter, then you do not re-register but only change your party affiliation and the deputy registrars do not receive any compensation for such work. Hence you are not harming the deputy registrar's compensation by going to the courthouse to have the change of party relationship made.
3. If since the last election you have changed your place of residence even though you still live in the same precinct, then you should re-register.

4. Your failure to vote in both of the last primary and general elections automatically makes it necessary for you to register yourself as a voter again. Failure to do so will make it impossible for you to vote in the coming primary election. However, if you voted in either the last August primary or in the general fall election and have not changed the location of your residence, then you are still a registered voter and the only thing you need to do in order to become a member of the Townsend party is to change your party affiliation.

5. Any desired change of party affiliation or of registering as a voter must be done on or before June 6, 1938, as the county clerk closes his registration books on that date.

The writer has included this article in his column so that the Townsends may have correct understanding of how the work of making the Townsend party a reality may be speedily accomplished and later will have another article which will deal with other phases of the law pertaining to the establishment of a new political party. The rest of today's space must be used for announcements.

Mrs. Ella Stowe has succeeded Dr. U. G. Little as the publicity head of Santa Ana club No. 3. She announces a dinner will be served to the public from 6 to 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in Townsend hall for a charge of 35 cents. The menu will include meat loaf, mashed potatoes, cabbage salad, hot rolls and butter, jelly, pie and coffee. The Hurd-Lentz orchestra will furnish music during the dinner and a Townsend meeting will follow with Alfred Redmond of Los Angeles as the speaker.

Walter R. Robb will be the speaker for the Huntington Beach club No. 1 meeting at 7:30 tomorrow night in Memorial hall at Sixth and Magnolia streets, according to A. D. Marshall, president.

Mrs. F. B. Parks writes that the Buena Park club No. 1 will hold a social meeting at 7:30 tomorrow night in the Woman's club building at Eighth and Grand streets. Ezra Law, president of Brea club No. 1, was a visitor at the Buena Park club last week and made a fine talk, according to Mrs. Parks.

NEW TAX BILL HUSTLED ALONG

WASHINGTON. (AP)—House passage of a tax revision bill by March 5 became the goal today of the house ways and means committee, which tentatively has approved the bulky measure.

Members said they hoped to bring the bill before the house early next week. Democratic Leader Rayburn said debate should require three or four days.

A 15-to-10 vote against eliminating a special surtax on family-owned or closely-held corporations paved the way for committee agreement on the legislation yesterday.

Bill drafting experts went to work at once to put into legislative phraseology the amendments approved by the committee. Representative Vinson (D., Ky.) said minor revisions might be made later.

Friends told police the colonel's widow, Mrs. Maryann Tingle, and his daughter, Mrs. Josephine Heben of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, were patients at a Milwaukee sanitarium.

Colonel Tingle, 63 years old, was cited three times for bravery while commanding vessels in the army transport service during the Spanish-American war.

Supervisors Vote $15 a Day Fund To Buy Drinks

SAN FRANCISCO. (AP)—This city's representatives, the board of supervisors decided, need $15 a day incidental expense allowance while traveling.

"Let's speak frankly," said President Warren Shannon. "Representatives must take committees to saloons and to dinner to get what they want. You can't buy a group of men a drink or a dinner for $1."

The board turned down a proposal to reduce the allowance from $15 to $1.

Dinah and Mite Incubator Babies

SAN DIEGO. (AP)—Dinah and Mite, 32 days old, are the city's prize incubator babies.

They are black leopards, born at the zoo. Their mother refused to care for them, so Dr. L. F. Now, however, this is "built up" with condensed milk, egg protein and sugar.

87 PAGES OF TESTIMONY IN WEST CASE

SIGNIFICANT
SKIPS SET
FORTH HEREAll Grand Jury Needs
Is Shenanigans Present

By FRANK ORR

Convincing from a severe case of granulated lids, carbonapertitis and a stiff neck after poring through the 87-page transcript in the N. E. West case, we might report that, according to best information, even that lengthy tome didn't reveal all.

There are several significant skips in the proceedings as reported, indicating perhaps that there was some interesting discussion

"Like A Dirty
Suit of Old
Underwear—?"

Eighty-seven pages of testimony before a grand jury ought to produce some questions. They did:

E. K. Wood: "Mr. West... was all over me... like a dirty suit of underwear."

Juror Fred Chapman: "We are not running a newspaper up here. This is business."

N. E. West: "I take people at their face value and I certainly am not skeptical or suspicious of people unless I find ground for being so... there is not a man or woman living that I would harm one particle physically or financially or morally or any other way."

off the record even, when some of the witnesses were with the jury. And certainly a lot of things were said behind closed doors that never will see the light.

The case against West, judged merely on the basis of the transcript, might not be so air-tight. But a grand jury doesn't have to have enough evidence directly before it to convict—just as a justice of the peace doesn't have to have convincing evidence that a felony prisoner is guilty.

All the justice needs, and all a grand jury has to have directly in evidence, is enough to indicate that there have been shenanigans, and that the person in the seat might have committed same.

SAVING THUNDER?

A good prosecutor often saves his thunder until the trial. And who's going to say that in the present case the jury and its district attorney don't know what they're doing?

West came off second best before the jury and knew it, as indicated by a few of his words, especially those in a jumpy four-page speech which galloped from page 55 to 58, inclusive.

Eight separate charges were made by the Little Dynamo, six of them in a letter and two (against the juvenile home) verbally. His blast against Assessor Jim Sleeper on mileage was refuted, as was his charge that Sleeper kept map-sale money. Sleeper's addressograph was satisfactorily explained, as was the case of the Laguna boy who West said was all right and who turned out to be the same lad who pulled a gun on the probation officer.

Four charges remain unexplained, at least in the transcript. He accuses Auditor Bill Lambert and Sheriff Logan Jackson of verifying illegal salary increases and of failing to turn in fees, respectively. These can't be determined until the battle-scarred salary ordinance gets a court test.

So it seems that only two remain for further consideration, unless West can prove some other witnesses liars.

One is that Jackson failed to report his fees and so on at the end of his first term, as is required by law. The other is the case of a girl under direct jurisdiction of the juvenile court—and whether the jury will mix in that is a question.

And, with the prosecution waiting to shoot off the fireworks, West may reasonably hope to have a hot time himself. He might have a couple of aces up his sleeve. If so, ringside seats ought to go early, come March 28 and the trial.

But those at the courthouse who don't like West—and they naturally are legion—hope something good and hot can be dumped down the West neck.

Otherwise, with his original claim that he was gangued up on, West becomes a martyr like Ole Doc Townsend—and martyrs get more votes than those who martyred them, sometimes.

I Just Found Out
About Goldfish—By—
MILLARD
BROWNE

As farms go, 40 acres is just middle-sized. But when it's planted to goldfish, of all things, it provides some 3,000,000 parlor pets during the course of a year. That's just what's happened out on West First street near Westminster.

The Pacific Goldfish farm, biggest in western America, grows everything from aquatic plants to baby turtles, specializes on 15 kinds of goldfish and 150 varieties of tropical fish.

Peculiar animals — goldfish. And tropical fish are even more peculiar. But they're fairly easy to produce, if you know how. The local farm's been doing it 15 years, started with a pair of minnows, now has a peak capacity of about a million, though only a few thousand are on hand this time of year, what with spawning season just coming up.

The 40-acre plant is out in the open, but the whole thing's covered with chicken wire. That's to keep seagulls and mudhens from attacking the goldfish. "If we didn't have the screen, there wouldn't be any fish left in 48 hours," explains Manager Robert Lowry. Despite the wire roof, seagulls often try to get through, occasionally fly in via the front door.

Owner of the goldfish farm is Henry Akizawa. When he left Tokyo for California 15 years ago a friend gave him two small goldfish. He didn't have any place to put them indoors, so he planted them in a pool on his small farm. They spawned the next spring, and he became interested in breeding them, gradually expanded the goldfish quarters at expense of the rest of his farm, and now grows nothing else.

Mortality of goldfish is practically negligible. They're hardy, live in a variety of temperatures (unless there's a sudden change). Water never has to be changed, since muddy water makes fish healthy, gives them better color.

Tropical fish at the Pacific farm are kept in hot-houses at an even 78 degrees temperature. They also thrive on muddy water.

Each size of each variety of fish is kept in a different pool, so there are several hundred of these pools, running from 12 to 15 inches deep, about 50 feet long and 25 feet wide. Though no two varieties are ever put in the same pool, unless it's done on purpose for experimental breeding, the stock has to be sorted for size a few weeks after spawning.

Sorting is done by luring fish to the surface with food, holding them with a six-foot net, then transferring some to another pool by use of buckets.

Most unique part of the business is packing and shipping. They're shipped by the dozen or hundred in big cans with screened lids to provide air, never have to be fed during the journey.

Goldfish can go two or three weeks without food, tropical fish will last seven or eight days. Neither variety is fed for 48

MOUNTAIN TRAGEDY

QUINCY. — Searchers found Mrs. Harry Ferris' dog guarding her frozen body under a tree and pushed on with little hope of finding her 45-year-old prospector husband.

In the snowbound Ferris cabin two miles away the party found a note the woman, 40, had written Feb. 16, several days after Ferris set out through the mountains in search of food. It said:

"I will go towards the river and pray I have strength enough to get to human habitation."

Frank Cochran, leader of the party, said Mrs. Ferris apparently hours before packing, since secret of shipping is to have fish's systems cleaned ahead of time so the water won't be fouled by excretions.

Majority of goldfish go to pet shops and nurseries for resale to private homes as pets. Major demand for tropical fish, however, is by owners of aquariums, since water temperature for them has to be more rigidly controlled.

Retail price on goldfish ranges from 10 cents to $100 depending on the variety. Cheapest and most in demand is the Comet, a long-bodied, long-tailed specimen. Other breeds look very different, some aren't even gold. The fantail, ranging from pure gold to solid silver, for instance, has a short body and long, flowing tail, while the Celestial has eyes on top its head, looks straight up.

Spring is spawning season for most goldfish, though the tropical varieties breed at different times. About 20 of the local farm's 150 breeds are live-bearing, and one, the Guppy, bears its young alive every 28 days.

Rarest fish in the place is a pair of tropical Toxotes Ejaculator, only ones of the kind on the coast. They come from the Amazon river, have never been bred in captivity. Peculiarly, they get their food by spitting water at insects flying above, are absolutely accurate up to 15 feet.

The goldfish farm is better known outside the county than locally, possibly because it has never encouraged sight-seers. It's a business, not a museum or zoo, the owners point out, and they don't exhibit their fish publicly. Though majority of the customers are west of the Rockies, the farm has made shipments to nearly every part of the world.

CRACK STAGE
CREW HELPS PLAYERS

Back of every successful stage production is a corps of workers the audience never sees, but whose efforts lend as much to the final effort as any else.

The Santa Ana Community Players paused today in their strenuous preparations for Friday and Saturday nights' presentation of "The Late Christopher Bean" to pay tribute to the unsung workers who will help put the production over the top.

Headlining the list is Mrs. Gladys Simpson Shafer, veteran director of the group, and former star.

Music for this week-end's performance will be furnished by the Elwood Bear string quartet, one of Santa Ana's outstanding musical groups. It includes Eleanor Miller, first violin; Valeska Porter, second violin; Rose Marie Flint, viola, and Anna May Archer, cello.

Mrs. Marshall Harnois, who is technical director for the local players, is working with her committees on mechanical features of the presentation.

Mrs. Crawford Nalle, ingenue of the production, is doubling in brass as one of the pair in charge of properties. Mrs. William Spurgeon is the other half of this committee. The make-up committee consists of Wylie Carlyle, Juanita Fletcher and Edith Ellis.

Stage carpenter is Victor Morrison, stage electrician Northrup Ellis, and the other members of the stage crew are Burr Shafer, Max Holmes, Marshall Harnois and Norman Cress. Eugene Carr, Pearl Camblin and Ralph Watson, together with the stage crew, constitute the scenery committee. Wall paper for the New England dining-room set was donated by the Pittsburgh Paint and Glass company.

Members of the cast of the Sidney Howard comedy are Leslie Steffensen, Gertrude Horn, Helen Johnson, Arthur Chapman, Wylie Carlyle, John Colwell, Betty Jo Willis, Florence Nalle and Crawford Nalle.

The performance is slated for 8:15 p. m. Friday and Saturday in Ebell auditorium.

Cruikshank Tea Tells Troth

An engagement that will unite members of two of Santa Ana's most prominent families was announced in formal fashion yesterday afternoon when Mrs. A. J. Cruikshank entertained at tea in her lovely Tustin home, "Los Alisos." Guests were informed of the future alliance between Miss Marion Cruikshank, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cruikshank, and Edward Johnston Haddon, son of Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, by means of little pasted-on anchors on which were written the young people's names and the word "anchored."

The gracious California-styled home, once the residence of Madame Modjeska, was a beautiful setting for the affair, which drew one hundred friends of the bride-elect and her family to call during the hours from 3 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Cruikshank was a stately figure in black lace and on her left in the receiving line was Miss Marion, charming in delicate pink lace with quaint frilled nosegay of pink blossoms, and wearing her lovely diamond solitaire. Assisting in the huge, lofty-ceilinged living-room were Mrs. Philip Hatzfeld and Miss Lena Thomas, close friends of the hostess. Prominent too was Mrs. Haddon, mother of the groom-elect.

A blazing fire and great jardinières of beautiful flowers added the finishing touch to the home's graciousness. Among the effective floral arrangements were those sent by Miss Thomas, Mrs. Terry Stephenson and Miss Barbara von Terner of Ojai.

Mr. Haddon had thoughtfully sent not only his fiancée's lovely little bouquet, but gardenia corsages to both charming mothers, and striking arrangements of assorted pink blossoms fashioned into anchors to decorate the long tea-table in the dining-room. These latter lay at either end of a cardboard ship on a mirror sea, and all were cleverly suggestive of Mr. Haddon's position as an officer of the American-Hawaiian line on the S.S. Utan.

As guests proceeded into the long dining-room, they were greeted by Miss Lida Cruikshank, aunt of the bride-elect, by her cousin, Mrs. James Whyte (Eleanor Cruikshank), and by Miss Harriet Rutan, who handed each the announced token.

Presiding over the tea and coffee urns were friends of long-standing, Mrs. Terry E. Stephenson and Mrs. A. W. Rutan, both wearing formal afternoon frocks. Mrs. Ronald Cruikshank and Mrs. Bruce Harding (Lorna Allen) further assisted in serving.

No wedding had been seen by the young people, both of whom have grown up in Santa Ana. Mr. Haddon will be in port again late in March, en route to the east coast, and Miss Cruikshank will continue her association with the Disney studios in Hollywood.

PAN HELLENIC GROUP HAS MEETING

Although attendance was limited to just a few tables at Pan Hellenic's monthly meeting last night, because of the holiday, a very pleasant social time was had by the group assembled at the Doris-Kathryn tearoom.

Dessert, following a George Washington motif, was served by two hostesses, who included Mrs. John Keeler, Mrs. Herman Ranney, Mrs. E. L. Hull, Miss Martha Wirick and Miss Helen Knox.

At a business meeting conducted by Mrs. Jack Hill, a letter from D. K. Hammond, president of Santa Ana Junior college, was read, thanking the local organization for its recent donation of $175 to the student loan fund.

The Northern Orange county Pan Hellenic group will be guests of Santa Ana chapter, comprising the southern part of the county, at next month's meeting.

Mrs. Richard J. Pagett was introduced as a special guest, and high score-prizes for bridge play later, lovely hammered copper boxes, went to Mrs. Paul Bailey, Mrs. H. L. Wilson and Mrs. Alice McBay.

COUNTRY CLUB DANCE TO BE FRIDAY

Country club members are anticipating a gay evening this Friday when their monthly dance is held at the clubhouse, with Lee Mann's orchestra playing.

The standing committee for the year will act as hosts and hostesses, including Mr. and Mrs. Roy Langley, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Fernandez.

A special dinner will be served before the affair, for which reservations must be in by Thursday noon.

SUPPER PARTY FOLLOWS BALL

"After the ball was over" Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Swarthout entertained with a mid-night supper at their home, 906 East Washington street. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Cy Feathery and the latter's cousin, Col. Nelson Holmstrom, honor guest of the Military ball, and his son, Nelson, Jr.

Also Mr. and Mrs. Dana Lamb, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Lykko, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sandon, Mr. and Mrs. Al Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Marsile, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Kramer, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leimer, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Carnahan and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Leiverman. Both Colonel Holmstrom and Mrs. Dana Lamb added to the enjoyment of the evening by telling many interesting anecdotes from their experiences.

SPRING PREVIEW

There's a hint of spring styles in this three-piece suit for southern wear. Its material—deep blue, muted green and white wool tweed—reflects the spring vogue for color. Its design links a jacket, skirt and top coat.

T-I-D-B-I-T-S..

By DR. MARY E. WRIGHT

Another birthday! Seventy-three years of living, and I will need many more birthdays to accomplish all the things I want to do. Nora Flagg, who thinks of kind things for friends, sent me a valentine which said, "You are one of the friendliest people I know." Mrs. Terry sensed the one faculty I am sure of, a deep interest in people.

It is interesting to hear of a whole family who enjoy the same outdoor sport. Every Sunday, Dr. and Mrs. Hubert Nall, Hubert, Jr. (who comes out from U. S. C.) and daughter Frances go horseback riding. They hire horses and usually ride out to Heves park and the surrounding country.

At a recent concert, met Miss Lizzetta Phillips who looked perfectly charming in a small scoup bonnet over her blond hair. With her was her fiancé, Jack Denton, a fine foil to her fairer features, a brunette coloring. He did not object to be mentioned in the above capacity.

Another striking looking woman was Mrs. Charles Van Wyk (La Verne Harrell), with the golden contralto voice, and with lovely dark hair and eyes, accentuated by her costume of duobonnet.

At the same concert, I noticed the mothers who were guests of daughters, Mrs. E. T. McFadden had her lovely mother, Mrs. J. C. Breckenridge, with her. Then there was Mrs. M. M. Wallace with her daughter, Mrs. Esther M. Evans, and each had a son in the chorus.

There is one very lovely old painting in the Leslie Powell exhibit in the City library called "Lower Manhattan" which is very satisfying in the whole effect. Another sketch of a "Seated Figure" (a woman) has beautiful lines.

Fritzi, a Great Dane, who belongs to the H. K. McIlvahn family at 1212 South Pacific street, is quite wonderful guardian of baby Harry, two years old. When the baby is out-of-doors, the dog never lets him out of her sight.

If the little fellow starts down the steps, the dog gently takes his arm in her mouth, and if Harry dares to grab him by the back of his rompers, and carries him onto the porch.

If anyone outside the family tries to lead the baby away, the dog quietly grabs the stranger's wrist and holds on until the baby's hand is dropped.

She is also a wonderful playmate to the older children, pulling a long line of skaters along the block.

Mrs. Frank Seidel, back in Santa Ana after months of travel in South America, said her greatest thrill was in flying over the Andes. On the peak of the range, she saw the tremendous statue of "The Christ of the Andes" which stands 100 feet high, with outstretched arms, the whole made of tiny blocks of granite.

When she reached Rio de Janeiro there was another statue of the Christ, with 365 steps in a spiral stairway to the top. She said both were awe-inspiring.

There are two play houses in town built for children that are quite remarkably complete.

The A. G. Flagg has one built in the Huber back garden for their grand daughter Linda, six years old. The outside is cream color with blue trim, and a green-tiled roof. The inside shows a room with blue linoleum floor, with a Donald Duck inlaid, several casement windows, all sorts of child's and doll's furniture, a real sink, a set of blue and white dishes, 24 dolls, and every sort of animal and bird on a shelf around the room.

The other house at the Olewiler home is larger because two little girls use it, Mary Katherine and Donna, but one noticeable feature is the lovely blue awning to

Dinner Party Follows Tea Jaysee

A fitting climax to the formal tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. A. J. Cruikshank to announce the engagement of Miss Marion Cruikshank and Johnston Haddon was the delightful dinner party given later by Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, mother of the groom-elect.

Her guests featured members of the two families and a few close friends. In the former group were her houseguests and cousins, Mrs. John H. Kite and Miss Allen Kite of New Jersey, and Mrs. W. D. Tarrant of Long Beach, wife of Vice-Admiral Tarrant. Also in that group were two members of Miss Cruikshank's family unable to be present at the formal announcement affair earlier in the day, her aunt Miss Shirley White, and her sister, Miss Josephine Cruikshank.

Others included in the charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cruikshank, parents of the bride-to-be; Mrs. L. A. White, her grandmother; Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Rutan and Miss Harriet Rutan, Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Swales and William H. Haddon.

Bowls of exquisite daffodils were the sole decorations, sent by Miss Marion from her garden. Later at bridge Mrs. Haddon presented high score prizes to Mr. Cruikshank and to Mrs. Rutan, who promptly turned the dainty gifts over to the bride-elect, to add to her initial trousseau possessions.

TALK GIVEN ON EUROPE BY DOCTOR

Second Travel section of Ebell met with Mrs. T. A. Winbiger, leader, for another interesting program, this time a travel talk given by Dr. S. J. Francis concerning his observations on Europe, made during his recent trip. From a medical standpoint, Mrs. Francis also told a few incidents from their travels.

Luncheon was served at one big table lovely with flowers and candles in patriotic colors. Hostesses Mesdames J. R. Medlock, C. C. Macdonald, and E. E. Gant, were assisted by Mrs. F. C. Rowland, daughter of Mrs. Crose and Mrs. Clarence A. Gustlin daughter of Mrs. Medlock.

Carrying out the Colonial idea, Mrs. Winbiger and Mrs. Medlock were seated at each end of the table and poured tea. Several musical numbers were on the program during the afternoon.

RUTH MILLER SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY

Miss Ruth Miller was surprised at a birthday party in her honor given Monday night at the home of Miss Vinola Barrett, 451 West Sixth street, with Miss Violet Rogers acting as co-hostess.

Decorations were carried out in the Washington birthday motif and games were played during the evening including a scavenger hunt which was greatly enjoyed by the girls present. Ruth received a number of lovely gifts.

COUSINS HONORED BY BUFFET SUPPER

A buffet supper in honor of visiting cousins from Iowa was held Saturday evening at the W. A. Ritner home. The refreshment table was decorated in the patriotic theme with red, white and blue flowers and candles, and large flags were about the room.

NOTED FLOWER EXPERT OF JAPAN TO LECTURE

Another of the outstanding public events presented by Bowers Memorial museum will occur Friday afternoon, today, when Mrs. Oshikawa, founder of the Shofuryu school of flower arrangement and just come from Tokyo, will speak on Japanese flower arrangements.

The lecture, Mrs. Coulter pointed out, will be considerably enhanced by the continuation of the museum's remarkable exhibition of oriental art that has been drawn largely from the collections of prominent local people.

Mrs. Oshikawa, who will make a five months, nationwide tour, is considered to be "the" flower arrangement authority of Japan at the present time.

She speaks English, requires the services of an interpreter, but it is expected that her floral creations will speak for themselves.

The talk will begin at 2 p. m. It is expected that, due to the importance of the event, the museum will be crowded to capacity attendance by Orange county flower lovers.

Wife of 30 Years Encourages Young Man To Take a Chance, Start a Little Home

"Let's get back to old-fashioned homes!" writes a mother and wife of some 30 years in telling of how she and her husband, following their marriage in 1906, slowly but surely built their home and raised their family. This mother was prompted to write after reading the query of our young man correspondent 27 who was wondering in letter to me recently whether or not to take a chance on life and start a little home of his own. Here is her letter:

Dear Miss Stoddard: A few days ago there was a letter in your column from a young man 27 years old who was wondering whether to take a chance on life and start a little home of his own. I just want to tell her how my husband and I got our start. We were married back in 1906. My husband had a steady job of $60 per month.

We were renting a little apartment, paying $13 a month. I said to him we might as well get us a lot and build us a little house of our own that we can call home.

So we looked around and found a lot for $525 all covered with weeds. We cleaned it all off and bought some lumber on time. Got us some chickens and had the gas and water piped in to the lot and built us a little house 10 x 30 with three little rooms in it. We burned oil lamps and had a gasoline stove. I papered it and fixed it all up cute and we had a photograph and piano, and we were happy in our little home.

One day in December a little, brown-eyed baby came into our home. Of course I was rather discouraged at first until I regained my health because I didn't have enough money to pay all the doctor bill, which was $20. But I soon forgot all my sickness and discouragement in the love of my little son.

Inside of two years we had our lot paid for and went into the building and loan and built us a nice house. About that time there came a little brown-eyed baby girl.

Well, later we sold this house and built us another lovely home closer in to town.

I can't tell you how happy that I am that I got married and had my children while I was young, very lonely, without any children or anyone to help you out when you get sick and discouraged.

Let's get back to old-fashioned homes and right living!

A MOTHER.

THE BLIND ARCHITECTS...

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways, and be wise," Proverbs, vi:6. No more wonderful organization of life exists than among the countless billions of ants that crawl over the face of the Earth. Many lessons in sociology may be learned from study of their ways, some of which are so amazing as to be unbelievable.

Strange as it seems, in Northern Australia there is a member of the ant family -- the termite, Amtermes meridionalis -- that builds huge nests of earth in exactly north-south orientation, to receive a minimum of heat from the strong summer sun. Yet, oddly, this ant is totally blind!

How the millions of tiny insects know just where to drop their tiny loads of dirt particles to create the amazing structure is a mystery of nature. Each mound is about eight feet high. Its north-south axis is roughly ten feet long while the east-west axis measures but two feet at the greatest width. Natives of Australia have long made use of these "compass nests" in finding their way through dense forests.

Abolish Orange County Slums

Evidence continues to pile up showing the need of federal slum clearance in Orange county, despite the contention of some who deny that such habitations exist here.

More than 200 members of the General Welfare units have petitioned the board of supervisors to launch action to put the county in a position to take advantage of the Wagner-Steagall housing act, when the state passes the necessary enabling legislation.

The Orange County Tuberculosis society has evinced a deep interest in local conditions, realizing that the high death rate from white plague in certain localities is due in part to unsanitary, inadequate housing.

A Journal reporter has traveled over the county, taking pictures and talking to the inhabitants of scores of wretched hovels. Without exception they have expressed the need and desire for better homes.

In San Francisco, under the leadership of Mayor Rossi and a group of progressive women's clubs, the machinery is already in readiness to take advantage of federal money for slum replacement when it becomes available.

The supervisors will contribute their share of health and happiness to thousands of miserable neighbors if they take similar steps here.

As Hitler barges in on Austria, it is interesting to note that England and France made Austria helpless back there at Versailles.

Bills Should Be Paid First

If legalized liquor is going to remain in circulation, it must be consumed in a reasonably moderate manner. This is the contention of a nationally known whisky distilling company, whose current advertising emphasizes: "Pay Your Bills First."

"No person should spend a cent for liquor until the necessities of living are provided . . . and paid for," the advertisement states.

Apparently officials of this company have been doing some advance thinking. They realize that if people continue to abuse the privilege of having legalized liquor, the pendulum of public opinion will swing back the other way and prohibition might return.

Prohibition had its train of abuses—the bootlegger, speakeasy, bad liquor and vice overlords. It was as immoderate in one way as the growing abuse of legalized liquor is in another.

Neither extreme is desirable. The distilling firm is cagey enough to see that liquor is purely a luxury indulgence and is entitled to no place in the scheme of things until bills and rent are paid.

It is reported that the Scandinavians, the most peaceable people on earth, are gradually decreasing. Too good to last.

Oh 'Humanizing' Murder

Some of the keenest minds in the country, including Mr. Hearst's, are busy on a plan to enlist the United States and other great world powers in a pact to "humanize" war.

The proposed agreement would, in effect, outlaw any nation which orders indiscriminate bombing of noncombatants, as we understand it.

Certainly the horrors perpetrated upon noncombatant populations in the last several years of undeclared wars, the mangling of women, children and babies, have surpassed the limits of the imagination. No even half sane person could wish for the continuance of this frightful butchery.

But to attempt to end it by outlawing nations that refuse to be "humanized" would be very much like outlawing burglars who refused to recognize rules set down by other members of their class.

War will not be ended or cured by saving mothers and babies from slaughter while the killing of their husbands and fathers is speeded up.

At any rate, there can't be over-production in the tourist crop that comes to Orange county.

S.A. Must Find a Way Out

"I like to shop in Santa Ana, but the parking congestion is terrible."

That's what a Lido Isle subscriber tells us in discussing Santa Ana as a retail trade center. He has touched on a sore spot. How can visitors get the most out of business facilities here when parking facilities are inadequate?

For months past the police department has been passing out tickets to overtime parkers, installing additional short-time-limit zones and dropping no parking areas. These methods have helped, but, as everyone knows, parking is still too crowded in downtown S. A.

The only thing to blame, of course, is progress—progress that started 'way back before there were so many automobiles.

A community grows, however, by keeping up with progress. Santa Ana must find an out to the parking jam, whether it be parking meters or more parking lots.

Florida has decided that bingo is a game of chance. Sort of like getting into courthouse politics.

FAIR Enough

Tom Comes Up For Re-election

By Westbrook Pegler

KANSAS CITY.—Tom Pendergast's city administration, composed of a mayor and a council of nine, comes up for re-election on March 29 and the opposition is crying in a pale voice that the city's self-respect must be restored. That is weak talk, because it is admitted that this rotten machine does a good job of running the service and financial affairs of the town and gives a far better dollar's worth of government than Kelly and Nash give in Chicago or Hague gives in Jersey City.

Moreover, the opposition consists of an alliance of sorehead Democrats and enfeebled Republicans and by its ineffectiveness to date confirms the unwisdom of hitching up the ass with the ox. Of course, the coalition promises reform in a large, general way, but, on the basis of past performance in this and many other cities, that just means another morality drive and the eventual imprisonment of a few greasy crapshooters and some poor, scrawny trollops and business agents thereon.

There is no reason to believe that the coalition could economize below the present cost of government, improve the service or restrain the natural impulse of elated politicians to load the payrolls with electorates who might outnumber the deserving Democrats of Pendergast's mob and do worse work if any.

EXASPERATING TRUTH

The exasperating truth about the old saloon-keeper's mob is that its thieving on big things at the city hall is subject to the veto of old Judge Henry McElroy, the city manager, who is proud of his reputation for thrift.

The nature of his office does not make him officially concerned with public morals or police work except in the phase of appropriations. If the machine shakes down the gamblers and the madams and takes a cut off the salary of every cop, fireman and clerk in the public service, that would be outside his department, although he did give your correspondent the full gaze of his honest eyes as a gullible as an ace in the hole, say without a flicker that the old saloon-keeper's machine positively did not accept any lug or shake from either the gamblers or the girls.

Judge McElroy is big business, and when he talked Henry Ford out of his plan to abandon the struck Ford plant in Kansas City his message to the press, as he returned to town, was a hand-wrought poem composed on the train:

GOOSE HANGS HIGH

Everything is lovely and the goose hangs high.

Soon you'll be watching the Ford's roll by.

He found Henry a kindred soul and talked to him like a Dutch uncle to save the industry for Kansas City. He is the spirit of the chamber of commerce.

So what about the moral tone, the civil humiliation and the city's self-respect?

Before going into that let us let down our hair and admit that these things are mere mayonnaise and that Tom Pendergast gives business, the best people and the underworld a very close approximation of what they want from local government. Then let us forget about the moral tone, civic humiliation and the city's self-respect. They are for the luxury trade.

Business is protected against rough stuff in strikes; taxes are not bad, the police are straining their tripe to keep down robbery and motor theft in campaign time at least. And as for the underworld, gambling joints run in plain view of any passerby and the nickel on the pane is a familiar city sound.

DOUBLE PURPOSE

The wide-openness of Kansas City is intended to serve a double purpose. It provides money for the organization which otherwise it would have to steal out of taxes or perquisites, and is supposed to keep the criminal element contented and reasonably prosperous.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

Glenn L. Martin arrived here this morning almost on schedule on his trip from Pomona to Santa Ana by way of Venice and Long Beach. He covered the distance of 88 miles in 105 minutes' flying time. He landed at Venice and Long Beach to take on gasoline for remaining laps of his flight.

WASHINGTON.—With approval of President Taft, Secretary of State Knox today instructed Ambassador Wilson to tell Huerta in diplomatic terms that the United States will seriously object to summary execution of sentence on deposed President Madero. The state department will oppose slaughtering of the former president for crimes seemingly purely political, without a fair and open trial, it was announced.

OAKLAND.—After shooting his wife dead today, Henry Goldberg, a painter, was shot and killed by his son, Edward, following a desperate struggle for possession of the revolver.

Motorcycle Cop Roy Davenport lost his cap last night when it fell off as he was in hot pursuit of a car driven by R. L. Collins of Irvine, reportedly far in excess of the 15-mile speed limit. Some other motorist apparently picked up Davenport's cap and goggles before he had a chance to return for it after catching the speeder.

A better rule would be: "Never lose anything."

I'll Tell You

By BOB BURNS

No matter how hard a person gets, you'll find that they have a soft side to their nature if you can just reach it. I know a woman out here in Hollywood who has a reputation for havin' the "stoniest" heart in town.

The other day she went to a lawyer and told him she was gonna sue her husband for a divorce and for $25,000 a year alimony. The lawyer says "How much money does your husband make a year?"

She says "He makes $25,000 a year—you see I'm not as heartless as people think I am—I wouldn't think of suing him for more than he's makin'."

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is the ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful to that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion. The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

THE WITNESS

To the Editor: We are still quoting Colbeck. He writes: "We must discard the Jewish scriptures—we must specialize upon the teachings of Jesus." Since Colbeck has decided to specialize on the teachings of Jesus, we shall prove by the words of Jesus, that the Jews had nothing to do with writing the scriptures! That the scriptures (The Old Bible, to which he refers) is the Word of God! Jesus said: "To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice." John 18:37. Again He said: "But I have greater witness than that of John, for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me!"

"Search the Scriptures; for in them ye have eternal life, and they testify of me." (Colbeck says we must discard the Scriptures.) Yes, these Scriptures were the Old Bible, for the new was not written at that time. Again Jesus said: "Do not think I will accuse you to the Father: There is one that accuseth you, even Moses in whom ye trust. For if ye had believed Moses, ye would have believed Me for He wrote of Me."

Thus, Jesus gave witness to the truthfulness of both Moses and the Scriptures! Also, that God was His Father. Now Colbeck does not believe one word that Jesus has spoken in these scriptures! And yet he is "specializing on the teachings of Jesus." Colbeck has no use for Moses, or the Old Bible!

And Jesus said: "Have ye not read in the book of Moses, how in the bush God spake unto him, saying, 'I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.' Mark 12:26. Now we turn to Exodus 3:6. And wherever we find this bush, we shall find the book of Moses: 'And God called unto him (Moses) out of the midst of the bush. 'Moreover,' He said, 'I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.' These were the exact words, as Jesus spoke them in Mark 12:26. And Jesus said that was the book of Moses! And this Colbeck denies. He doesn't believe that Moses wrote the Pentateuch. Then said Jesus, 'The God of Israel, the God of Jacob.' Mark 12:26. Now we turn to Exodus 3:6. And wherever we find this bush, we shall find the book of Moses: 'And God called unto him (Moses) out of the midst of the bush.
